

Rather than weakening NJ's donotcall law, you should be strengthgening other states' laws. Answering the phone is often difficult for me, and increases my chances of serious injury from falling or trying to get out of the lift recliner I have to sleep in. The stress of daily irritation added to wasted effort is also bad for my health.